Our glasses are empty. Conrad signals for the check. The evening is still young, and he plans to move on to the late-night dining and drinking spot Foreign Cinema in the Mission. "An inland outpost for those of us raised near the waterfront," Conrad says. "Modernism, the art gallery, is always hosting shows there. Best place is the five-seat bar at the back of the dining room—don't confuse it with their bar fronting Mission Street."
